

I abandoned most of local radio because of the lack of quality programming, but I still listen to Public Radio (on FM) because it is good stuff. I want to be able to have local traffic conditions via satellite radio.

There are times in the day where traffic conditions are not covered by local radio because it is outside the commute hours, but a traffic jam exists due to an accident. 24-hour coverage would alert me to why I am stuck in traffic.

This type of service could not be provided by a local broadcast because it is not economically viable.
